A series of Better Choices, Better Health® Diabetes workshops will take place on [Day], [Dates], at the [Location & Address]. The sessions will take place from [Times].

Better Choices, Better Health® Diabetes workshops teach strategies to handle chronic health conditions and improve quality of life. Each workshop consists of six two-and-a-half hour sessions with interactive group discussion. Better Choices, Better Health® Diabetes is not a support group but rather a workshop on how to make small steps toward positive changes and a healthier life.

The workshop topics will include: managing pain, fatigue and stress; tips for healthy eating, personal exercise plans; relaxation techniques; medication how-to's; dealing with emotions; and working better with your doctor and care team.

The program was originally developed at Stanford University over 20 years ago. Better Choices, Better Health® Diabetes is designed for adults with pre-diabetes and type-2 diabetes. Caregivers and adults with type 1 diabetes are also welcomed to attend.

The South Dakota Department of Health, South Dakota State University (SDSU) Extension, and South Dakota Department of Human Services launched the Better Choices, Better Health® SD in an effort to teach South Dakotans with chronic health conditions ways to manage the impact of their disease on their lives and their families' lives. The classes are offered in partnership with [partner organization – if applicable].

For more information or to register for the workshop, call the SDSU Extension Office at 1-888-484-3800. Online registration is available at www.betterchoicesbetterhealthsd.org. Preregistration is required.
